

About the Author

Bengt-Arne Vedin, PhD, is a professor emeritus, now with the Department of Industrial Economics and Management at the Royal Institute of Technology in Stockholm, Sweden, a school where he has previously been a student, teaching assistant, lecturer, and an adjunct professor. He was a professor at Mälardalen University in Eskilstuna, Sweden, and served as a guest professor in Bangkok and Girona, Spain, and also, for six years, belonged to the board for Halmstad University, Sweden. The author of 70 books on themes like innovation, information technology, and future studies, he has served on the boards of about fifteen corporations and a roughly equal measure of boards for professional societies. He is a Fellow of the Royal Swedish Academy of Engineering and of the World Academy of Art & Science, serving on the board for the Foresight Network and the Editorial Board for FUTUREtakes magazine. He is senior advisor to InnovationManagement.se. He has finished more than thirty marathon races.