

Cheng F Lee is a Distinguished Professor in the Finance Department of the School of Business at Rutgers University and was chairperson of the Department from 1988–1995. He has also served on the faculty of the University of Georgia (1972–1976) and the University of Illinois (1976–1988). While at the University of Illinois, he was the IBE distinguished professor (1982–1988). He has maintained academic and consulting ties in Taiwan, Hong Kong, China, and the United States for the past decade. He has been a consultant to the American Insurance Group, the World Bank, the United Nations, The Marmon Group Inc., etc.

Dr Lee has two masters degrees, one in statistics from West Virginia University and one in economics from National Taiwan University. His PhD in economics and finance is from the State University of New York at Buffalo. He founded the Review of Quantitative Finance and Accounting (RQFA) in 1990 and the Review of Pacific Basin Financial Markets and Policies (RPBFMP) in 1997, and serves as Financial Review (1985–1991) and the Quarterly Review of Economics and managing editor for both journals. He was also a co-editor of The Business (1987–1989).

In the past ten years, Dr Lee has written five textbooks in addition to Statistics for Business and Financial Economics. The texts range in subject matter from corporate finance and urban econometrics to security analysis and the theory of financial analysis and planning.

During the past 25 years, Dr Lee has published more than 140 articles in more than 20 different finance, economics, statistics, and management journals including the Journal of Finance, Management Science, JASA, Journal of Business and Economic Statistics, JFQA, Journal of Business, and the Journal of Econometrics. He uses statistics methodology and theory extensively in his research.