

Born and raised in Norway, Bernt Arne Ødegaard got his Bachelor and Masters degrees in Business Administration at the Norwegian School of Economics and Business Administration in Bergen, Norway. He went on to doctoral studies at Carnegie Mellon University's Graduate School of Industrial Administration, receiving his PhD in 1992. His thesis paper on estimation of taxes implicit in bond prices, written with Richard C Green, was published in the Journal of Finance. Bernt Arne Ødegaard was assistant professor at the Universities of Illinois (Chicago) and British Columbia (Vancouver) before becoming an Associate Professor at the BI Norwegian School of Management in Oslo, Norway, in 1995. Bernt Arne Ødegaard's research is predominantly empirical, but has spanned such areas as fixed income, market microstructure, international finance and corporate governance. His research is published in journals like the Journal of Finance, Journal of Financial Markets and the Journal of International Money and Finance. Bernt Arne Ødegaard also holds an advisory position in Norges Bank, the Central Bank of Norway, where he advises on Financial Markets Issues.