

Dr Richard Pomfret has been Professor of Economics at the University of Adelaide since 1992. Prior to this, he was Professor of Economics at the Johns Hopkins University School of Advanced International Studies in Washington DC, Bologna (Italy) and Nanjing (China). He previously worked at Concordia University in Montréal and the Institut für Weltwirtschaft at the University of Kiel in Germany. His research interests are in economic development and international economics. He has written 17 books, including The Economics of Regional Trading Arrangements (1997, 2001). He has also written textbooks on international trade and on development economics, and has edited a textbook on Australia's trade policies. His most recent book, The Central Asian Economies since Independence, was published by the Princeton University Press in 2006.

Dr Pomfret has acted as advisor to the Australian government and to international organizations. In recent years, he has contributed to the 2005 UNDP Regional Human Development Report Bringing down Borders, the 2006 Asian Development Bank report Central Asia: Increasing Gains from Trade through Regional Cooperation in Trade Policy, Transport, and Customs Transit, and an April 2007 report for the EU Evaluation of the Trade Facilitation Impact of the BOMCA Programme.