

Rudi Zagst is Professor of Mathematical Finance, Director of the Center of Mathematics and Head of the Institute for Mathematical Finance at TUM (Technische Universität München). He is also President of risklab germany, a German-based consulting company offering advanced asset management solutions. He is a consultant and a professional trainer to a number of leading institutions. His current research interests are in financial engineering, credit risk modelling and quantitative asset management. Prior to his current positions he headed the Product Development group in the Institutional Investment Management at Hypovereinsbank, the Consulting group at Allfonds International Asset Management GmbH and was Managing Director of the RiskLab GmbH — Private Research Institute for Financial Studies. He was awarded "Professor of the Year 2007" in Germany by the magazine Unicum Beruf for linking practice and education in an outstanding way. He is author of the book Interest Rate Management with Springer Finance and co-author of the books Zertifikate spielend beherrschen and Zu nah an der Sonne — Die größten Pleiten der Finanzgeschichte with Finanzbuch Verlag. He holds a PhD in Natural Sciences from the University of Ulm, Germany.