

CONTENTS

| | |
|--|----|
| Preface | ix |
| Acknowledgements | xi |
| Philomela's Tongue: Introductory Remarks on Witness Literature Horace Engdahl | 1 |
| When We Don't Speak, We Become Unbearable, and When We Do, We Make Fools of Ourselves. Can Literature Bear Witness? Herta Müller | 15 |
| The Freedom of Self-Definition Imre Kertész | 33 |
| The Bedazzled Gaze: On Perspective and Paradoxes in Witness Literature Peter Englund | 45 |
| On the Frontier Timothy Garton Ash | 57 |
| Of Tamarind and Cosmopolitanism! Nuruddin Farah | 69 |
| Cloned Eyes Li Rui | 77 |

| | |
|--|-----|
| Witness: The Inward Testimony Nadine Gordimer | 85 |
| Elaborations of Testimony Kenzaburo Oe | 99 |
| Literature as Testimony: The Search for Truth Gao Xingjian | 113 |
| Contributors | 129 |