

Contents

Preface	xi
Chapter 1 Global Poverty and the Market Economy	1
1.1. Introduction: Global Poverty, the Disease of Humanity	1
1.2. Human Profit	3
1.3. Our Problems are Man Made	4
1.3.1. Poverty, a by-product of the western style market economy, and a concern for those who care	4
1.4. A Sampling of Global Human Poverty	6
1.5. The Role of Technology	11
1.6. A Note on Market Economy	12
1.7. “We are Everywhere and Meddle in Everything”	14
1.7.1. Humans meddling with nature: oil, water and fish	14
1.8. Conclusion	16
Questions for Discussion	18
Notes	19

Chapter 2	The Band-Aid Approach to Human Poverty	20
2.1.	Is the Selfish Gene the Greedy Gene?	21
2.2.	The Idealized Market Economy Takes Care of Everyone — But It Isn't Ideal	22
2.3.	Bridging the Gap — Our Attempts to Feed the Poor and Fill the Holes in the Market Economy	25
2.3.1.	The market economy and the growing gap between the rich and the poor	25
2.3.2.	Solving global poverty: the band-aid approach	26
2.3.3.	Money makes the world go around — global aid at the international level	27
2.3.4.	Problems with the distribution of wealth	28
2.4.	Protecting the Environment, and Preventing Further Deterioration	31
2.4.1.	The seven setbacks: the critical environmental issues of our time	31
2.4.2.	Environment health advocates	32
2.4.3.	The community and individual efforts for environmental health	34
2.4.4.	Conservation and biodiversity and environmental management system	34
2.4.5.	Remedies for environmental problems (poverty) suggested by Green Economics	35
2.5.	Conclusion	36
	Questions for Discussion	37
	Notes	37
Chapter 3	The Nature of Ownership	39
3.1.	What is Ownership?	40
3.2.	The Three Moral Fibers of “Ownership”	41
3.2.1.	Aggression and greed: war is all about “ownership” at the cost of human life	42
3.2.2.	Protective or defensive ownership: professionals — self-governing and proprietary right	45

3.2.3. Love, care and passion: the “God” given nature to humans	49
3.2.4. “Ownership” not for sale	50
3.3. Ownership, the Private Property Right	50
3.3.1. Friedman’s doctrine of private property right	50
3.4. Conclusion	51
Questions for Discussion	53
Notes	55
Chapter 4 Custodianship, Ownership Rights, and Stewardship Responsibility	56
4.1. The Difference between Ownership and Stewardship	56
4.1.1. Profit driven owners butcher dead animals for food	56
4.1.2. I am not the owner, but the steward of this house	57
4.2. Corporate Ownership	58
4.2.1. Corporate social responsibility and corporate fraud	59
4.2.2. A quiet evolution in corporate “ownership” and the issue of corporate responsibility	60
4.3. Ownership and Stewardship: It’s all a Matter of Perspective	62
4.4. Stewardship Accountability	67
Questions for Discussion	69
Chapter 5 Cost	70
5.1. The Nature of Cost	70
5.1.1. Cost, a simple word, but in the real world, a source of confusion!	70
5.1.2. Who bears the cost of a war?	72
5.2. “War and Oil”; Rich and Poor	75
5.3. Cost — A Concern for the WTO	77
5.4. Cost — A Concern for the Individual	78

5.5. The Challenge	81
5.5.1. Cost measurement in business	81
5.5.2. Generally Accepted Accounting Principles	82
5.6. Conclusion	84
Questions for Discussion	84
Appendix 5.1. The Failure of the WTO Cancún Conference: The “Cost” is the Cause	86
Notes	87
 Chapter 6 From Cost to Profit	 88
6.1. Profit as We Know It, or as We Don’t Know It	88
6.1.1. Is there such a thing as “profit”?	89
6.1.2. Profit and its varied source and identity	91
6.1.3. How shareholders get their share of corporate profit?	92
6.1.4. Corporate profit distribution is a mixture of justice and law	93
6.1.5. Profit can just be a game play	94
6.2. Accounting Income or Financial Income	95
6.3. The Issues of Subjectivity and Opportunity Cost	101
6.4. A Corporation is a Social Entity	102
6.5. Conclusion	103
Questions for Discussion	103
Notes	104
 Chapter 7 The Market Economy, Profit and Corporate Residual	 105
7.1. The Market Economy is a Man-Made Cause of Global Poverty	105
7.2. Some Technologies Deserve to Die, Others are due for Change	106
7.3. Accounting and Wealth Distribution	109
7.4. Residual	112
7.5. The Challenge	116
Questions for Discussion	118
Notes	118

Chapter 8	Residual and Social Enterprise	120
	8.1. The Market Economy — Engine of Growth, Engine of Poverty	120
	8.2. The Development of NGOs	121
	8.3. The Funding Challenge	125
	8.3.1. Government support	126
	8.3.2. Private individuals	127
	8.3.3. Through provision of paid-for services to the community	128
	8.3.4. Corporate support and funds from corporate contributors	129
	8.4. Social Enterprises are Worthy, but not the Solution	131
	8.5. It is Corporate Residual that Will Help to Relieve Global Poverty Pressure, not from Corporate Earnings or Net Income	132
	Questions for Discussion	132
	Notes	133
Chapter 9	How Accounting May Help to Relieve the Pressure of Global Poverty	134
	9.1. Why Accounting?	134
	9.2. What is Our Economic Reality?	138
	9.3. The Challenge is on “Profit”	139
	9.4. “Residual” and Stewardship Accountability	140
	9.5. Residual as a System for Wealth Redistribution	141
	9.6. Making the Working Model Work	144
	Questions for Discussion	148
	Notes	148
Chapter 10	Is it the End or an End of a Beginning?	149
	10.1. Tier 1: Residual and Capital Charge — A Basic Model	150
	10.2. Tier 2: Operating Residual and a System of Redistribution — A Practical Approach	152

10.3. Tier 3: A Conceptual Model — Guesswork as an Indication for Future Considerations	155
10.4. Reserve Allocation: To Relieve the Pressure on Global Poverty	163
10.5. Is it the End or the End of the Beginning?	163
10.5.1. A matter between rich and poor	163
10.5.2. Residual is a distributive system within the system of accounting	164
10.6. Back to the Market Economy: Ownership and Profit	164
10.7. Our Vision: Too Short, or Too Long?	167
Questions for Discussion	168
Notes	169
Index	171