1. INTRODUCTION	1
1.1. From the 19th Century to the 1940s	1
1.2. After the 1950s; Existence of Equilibrium and Core Limit Theorem	7
1.3. The Local Uniqueness and Stability of Equilibria	7
1.4. Markets with a Continuum of Traders	9
1.5. Increasing Returns and Monopolistic Competition	11
1.6. Markets with Infinitely Many Commodities	13
1.7. The Organization of the Book	14
1.8. Notes	15
2. CLASSICAL EXCHANGE ECONOMIES	19
2.1. Commodities and Markets	19
2.2. The Preference of a Consumer	22
2.3. The Demand of a Consumer	24
2.4. The Demand Theory	31
2.5. Competitive Equilibria of a Classical Exchange Economy	34
2.6. A Limit Theorem of the Core of a Classical Exchange Economy	40
2.7. Nash Equilibria and the Core of Games	45
2.8. The Local Uniqueness of Equilibria	51
2.9. Notes	60
3. ECONOMIES WITH A CONTINUUM OF TRADERS	63
3.1. Markets with a Measure Space of Consumers	63
3.2. Spaces of Preferences	65
3.3. Existence of Competitive Equilibria	69

General Equilibrium Analysis of Production and Increasing Returns

3.4.	The Equivalence of the Core and Equilibria	81
3.5.	Exchange Economies with a Non-Convex Consumption Set	85
3.6.	Production Economies with a Non-Convex Consumption Set	94
3.7.	On The Law of Demand	103
3.8.	Notes	106
4.	PRODUCTION ECONOMIES WITH INCREASING RETURNS	109
4.1.	Classical Production Economies with Competitive Firms	109
4.2.	Core of an Economy with Increasing Returns	117
4.3.	Production Economies with External Increasing Returns	124
4.4.	Pareto Optimality and Tax Policies	130
4.5.	Notes	139
5.	ECONOMIES WITH INFINITELY MANY COMMODITIES	141
5.1.	Markets with Infinitely Many Commodities	141
5.2.	Exchange Economies with Infinite Time Horizon	145
5.3.	Exchange Economies with Differentiated Commodities	155
5.4.	Exchange Economies on a General Banach Space	160
5.5.	Infinite Time Horizon Economies with External Increasing Returns	169
5.6.	On the Differentiability of Demand	177
5.7.	Notes	181
6.	ECONOMIES WITH MONOPOLISTICALLY COMPETITIVE FIRMS	183
6.1.	Monopolistically Competitive Markets	183
6.2.	Existence of Equilibria with Pricing Rules	188
6.3.	Monopolistically Competitive Equilibria Under Convex Technologies	195
6.4.	Monopolistically Competitive Equilibria with Fixed Costs	201
6.5.	Notes	208
